AFET 2019 Annual Conference for

Young Scholars in Taiwan Studies

Organised by the Francophone Association for Taiwan Studies (AFET), with the support of Sciences-Po Lyon, the Ministry of Education of Taiwan and the Taipei Representative Office in France

4-5 April 2019, Lyon

Organised for the ninth time by the Francophone Association for Taiwan studies, the annual conference for young scholars in Taiwan studies aims to mobilise worldwide young scholars — including undergraduate, postgraduate and doctoral students as well as junior research fellows — to present and share in French language their research projects and findings with senior researchers and specialists coming from various disciplines.

This scholarly event gives a priority to students about to defend their theses or dissertations in the near future; to authors who have submitted (or will soon submit) to peer-reviewed journals articles, conference papers, or book chapters in edited volumes. Presentations of on-going or envisioned research projects can also be proposed.

The Fourth Christian Ricourt Francophone Young Scholar Award in Taiwanese Studies will be delivered at this annual conference, with a prize of €500. Information concerning the eligibility of application can be found attached to this call for paper.

Applications to the this conference shall be made through the attached form. An official invitation will be sent once the proposal has been accepted. This will allow presenters not based in a Lyon to apply as early as possible for funding for their transports or accommodation from their home institutions.

Application forms shall be sent before 15th of December 2018 to the following email address: secretaire@etudes-taiwanaises.fr

Objectives of the conference:

The main objective of this conference in Taiwanese studies is to outline the output of research by the young scholars from various francophone universities and research institutes around the world. This conference is organized as a complement to their learning of the specificities of the field of Taiwan studies, and to organize exchanges between young researchers and other researchers or lecturers familiar with the empirical works on Taiwan.

This time, the Francophone Association for Taiwan Studies is organising its conference at Lyon's Institute of Political Science (Sciences-Po Lyon).

The Francophone Young Scholar Award of Taiwanese Studies

The Prize rewards a promising young French-speaking researcher who works in humanities or social sciences about Taiwan or the Taiwanese people. It also aims to encourage students at the masters or doctoral level to work in the field of Taiwan studies. The award is to help the recipient undertaking his or her field research or publishing. The recipient will be chosen by a Committee of academics coming from various institutions around the world who specialise in Taiwan studies and participate in this conference.

The candidate will be evaluated on the basis of a written document of his/her research, around 5,000 to 10,000 words that is submitted to the secretaire@etudes-taiwanaises.fr before the 15th February, 2019 as well as their oral presentation in the conference.

Candidates whose mother tongue is not French are welcome to submit their applications for the competition but the selection committee will take notice of the fact that their mother tongue is not French.

One is welcome to propose a presentation in the conference without participating to the award competition.
